

Construction Adjudication and Payments Handbook

the parties had to comply with the adjudicator's decision. Any points of merit were open to Honeywell in the arbitration. It would make a nonsense of the adjudication process if the losing party could avoid the consequences of an adjudicator's decision by claiming that the dispute should be referred to arbitration. Stay declined.

(1)Walter Llewellyn & Sons Ltd v Excel Brickwork Ltd	[2011] CILL 2978, [2010] EWHC 3415 (TCC), Akenhead J	Parties failed to execute arbitration agreement The parties used an NEC2 contract but left blank the part of the form where the tribunal's identity could be entered. The standard conditions only provided for arbitration if the parties expressly agreed to it. Stay declined.
